

Not quite!

Feeding wild animals can be unhealthy for their diets, and dangerous for both the critters and for your family and pets. It might be nice to see them every day, but the better choice is to create a backyard space that encourages them to come and go as they please!

NEXT QUESTION >